Students should place highest priority on achieving minimum transfer eligibility and on completing courses for their majors, not on completing GE. Full completion of GE is not required for admission; it is required for graduation from UC.

Some majors require that students complete specific courses before they transfer. When UC campuses receive more applications than they have room to admit, they typically select the applicants who are most prepared for their majors.

Students should work with a SRJC counselor and a UC advisor to know how to prepare for their majors. This consultation also will help students decide which version of GE to complete.
